Peninsula Exposition, Carmel Day Tomorrow

Carmel Pine Cone

SATURDAY, SEPT. 1, 1923 CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA, CAL. Vol. IX, No. 33

Exposition Opening is Auspicious

With a blare of music, the fanfare of horns and a riot of color, the second annual Monterey Peninsula Industries and Art Exposition opened its gates to the public yesterday at the Monterey ball park on Franklin street.

Many days of thought and labor have been unselfishly donated by the business men and artists of the combined communities of Monterey, Carmel and Pacific Grove to let the world know what the Monterey Peninsula has to offer besides climate, health, sports, and incomparable scenery.

This exposition, which has now become an annual fete, serves each year to make the people acquainted with the products, commercial, industrial and artistic, of their own territory. The purpose is to demonstrate to the people that it is not necessary for the residents of the Peninsula to go abroad to do their trading and shopping, but that they can get just as good goods at home and at prices that compare favorably with those that they have to pay in other cities.

The opening day was "Monterey Day," and the event was fittingly celebrated in the evening with an old fashioned Spanish fiesta, staged by the ladies of the Monterey Civic Club. The music was furnished by the Del Monte Concert Orchestra, under the leadership of Frederick Preston Search of Carmel.

Today is "Pacific Grove Day," under the chairmanship of A. C. Jochmus, of the Pacific Grove chamber of commerce and secretary of the Monterey Peninsula Inc. The special program for today is made up of musicians, singers and dancers from the Grove.

Tomorrow, Sunday, will be "Carmel Day." W. L. Overstreet is chairman of the day's festivities. The special program to be given by Carmel artists is as follows: Vocal solo by Roberta Arment Leitch, accompanied by the Del Monte orchestra; aesthetic dances by Joan Williams, accompanied by the Del Monte orchestra; 'cello solo by Frederick Preston Search, accompanied by the Del Monte orchestra; vocal solo by Hal Bragg; Piano solo by George Baker; violin solo by Walter Kelsey; vocal duet by Hal Bragg and Roberta Arment Leitch.

Probably the most interesting exhibit for Carmelites is the display of paintings in the art building. For while Carmel does not shine to any conspicuous extent in the industrial firmament, it does play an important part in the domain of art. At one time or another pretty nearly all the notable artists of America have come to Carmel to paint, and they have made the mountains, the valleys, the sand dunes, the beach and the trees of this coast famous all over the world. And many of these men and women make Carmel and the Carmel Highlands their home. These artists have contributed generously of their work to make the artistic end of the exposition a success.

The exposition will close Monday night at 12. This closing day will be "County Day." The special program for this day will include Carmel talent. Roberta Arment Leitch will sing, accompanied by the Del Monte orchestra; Frederick Preston Search will play a 'cello solo; Walter Kelsey a violin solo, and Joan Williams a solo dance.

CARMEL

Irene Kelly

Oh summer-scented breath of pine and sage
Drifting o'er the dunes that white and piled stay
Guarding with jealous gates the brown sand road
That winds by cypress groves to Monterey!

White swirls of misty light creep soft
And silent up the darkening trails—
Enshrouding sun and shadow-patches of the hills
And the dim mysterious sea where no ship sails.

Split jagged tops of hard black mountain peaks—
Spain's castles in mid air arise—and of such things
As dreams are made, seem they so starkly built—
Cloud-spirits offering them to Heaven on outstretched wings.

Steep beyond steep of storm-carved cliff unfolds
Far-flung from Lobos at the southern shore—
In crescent curves the sea has hidden close
Gardens of rainbow flowers upon its emerald floor.

In cadenced booming rolls the age-old surf—
Splurging a turbulent freedom on the rocks—
Breaking from green translucent walls, to drop
In a white abandon which the staid earth mocks.

Carmel! In the cold clear shining of the night
When smallest silver lines of trembling waves
Just lap the beach in quiet of delight
The archeress walks the shimmering sea her magic paves.

Irene Kelly, Palo Alto.

MacDougal Lecture to Be Published

A large and appreciative audience heard Dr. D. T. MacDougal of the Carnegie Institution lecture in Arts and Crafts Hall last Monday night. The subject, "The Physical Basis of Life and Growth," is an interesting and important one, and therefore the Pine Cone, in the issue of September 8th, will publish the lecture in full. Application has been filed for a copyright.

Artist Visits Carmel

Hamilton A. Wolff and mother were recent visitors here. Mr. Wolff is a former Carmelite and a well known artist, and is now art director of the State Teachers' College at Santa Barbara. He also designed the sets for the two plays, "Lulu Bett" and "Enter Madame," which were given by the Community Arts in Santa Barbara recently. His pastel portrait of Mrs. Donald Hale (formerly Alice Hilby of Monterey) was purchased by Mrs. Henry Huntingdon of Pasadena and is included in her wonderful collection of paintings.

Monterey Lands Legion Convention

Thanks to a hustling, hard working delegation from the Monterey Post of the American Legion to the state convention of that body in Eureka, the 1924 convention will be held in Monterey. It required the pursuasive eloquence of Argyll Campbell, Paul Flanders, Francis Doud and J. P. Prior to land the prize for Monterey Peninsula against such contenders as Catalina Island, Santa Cruz and other places.

Informal Bridge Party

Mrs. John D. Gray entertained informally at bridge last Monday afternoon, complimenting her house guest, Mrs. DeWitt Gray of Berkeley and Mrs. Bernard of New York. Among the guests are Mrs John B. Jordan, Mrs. William Watts, Mrs. Greaves, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. McKee, Mrs. J. S. Snow, Mrs. W. D. Bevin, Mrs. Willard.

To Locate in Hollywood

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Tucker, after a long stay in Carmel, have left for Hollywood, where Mr. Tucker expects join Jerry Morrow in the auto repair business. Mrs. Tucker is well known here as a teacher of piano and organist of the San Carlos Mission in Carmel.

David Loring MacKaye, nephew of Herbert Heron and Percy MacKaye, with his wife and three children, were week-end guests of Herbert Heron. They come from Southern California.

Trustees Rest Easy on the Library Site

An expectant crowd, anticipating something doing at last Tuesday's evening's meeting of the city trustees, concerning reconsideration of the action of the board in voting to locate the Harrison Memorial Library on Block 60, the city's property, was disappointed. The matter was not officially mentioned.

First reading was given Ordinance No. 58, levying and fixing taxes for 1923 24. The rate is the same as last year—$1 per each $100 of assessed valuation and 20 cents on each $100 as the said dune tax.

The entire board and individuals and the city clerk were served with a superior court summons in an action instituted by F. W. and Agnes Nelson asking that the order of the board in vacating a portion of Carpenter street and opening a new street be nullified. Paul Flanders was also named as a defendant.

The city clerk was ordered to issue a warrant in partial payment for the city's new fire engine.

Objection to raise in valuation of Ocean avenue property was not sustained when the trustees met as a board of equalization.

The board adjourned to meet in regular session next Tuesday evening.

Club Entertains Sunday Afternoon

Last Sunday afternoon's social hour at Arts and Crafts Hall, under the auspices of the Carmel Club of Arts and Crafts, was a delightful affair and was largely attended.

The affair opened with a reading of a southern dialect story, published in the Atlantic, by Mrs. Sydney Yard. It was a simple tale, but the reader made it grave and absorbing.

Then followed a group of songs by Mrs. Mabel Kegg, beautifully rendered in a well modulated voice. The accompaniment by Mrs. A. Leitch was full and well sustained.

Again Mrs. Yard read, this time two children's poems, one by James Whitcomb Riley and another by Bret Harte, both selected with a view toward Mrs. Kegg's singing of several merry, rollicking songs of childhood.

Visiting in S. F.

Mrs. Cornelius Gardener and daughter of Santa Barbara, who are occupying Miss Shiell's cottage this season, are registered this week at Hotel Stewart, San Francisco. The late Colonel Gardener, U. S. A., was a commandant at the Presidio of San Francisco.

Byron G. Newell made a hurried trip to San Francisco early in the week.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

"Tweedles" Going Good

After two or three starts and a wait of two years, Booth Tarkington's "Bristol Glass," now known as "Tweedles," has landed in New York and seems to be a rousing success. Harry Leon Wilson's name appears on the programs now with that of Tarkington, reviving that old association that gave the world "The Man From Home," "Cameo Kirby" and other comedies.

Gregory Kelly and his wife, Ruth Gordon, are in the cast in the roles they have played in each of the former attempts to put the play over. They were in Tarkington's "Seventeen" when it was first produced, playing Willie Baxter, and the "baby talk lady."

Censorship Would Have Been a Tragedy

Channing Pollock, noted playwright, says: "There is scarcely a fine thing in literature or the drama, in the art accumulation of the ages, that could have been produced in the face of the kind of censorship we have experienced in America. The rules made by the state boards would have obliterated Shakespeare, [illegible] Balzac, smashed Shelley, mutilated Moliere, destroyed Dante, and rendered impossible the publication of the Holy Bible. I write as a lover of plays and as a pastor of souls, and not as a reformer. I am opposed to having plays deal with the sex impulse and with the advanced problem of society. There must, however, be some limit. When plays are merely for propaganda and venture beyond the conventions and moral laws of the public they are not suitable for the amusement of a mixed audience and unscrupulous business should never be allowed to show them for a profit."

Why Not Take the Course?

That the course on photoplay writing to be conducted under the University of California Extension Division beginning the fourth week in August gives the student essentially the same training that he would receive in a motion picture studio, is the statement of Eric Howard, the instructor, former editor of "Munsey's Magazine," and editor and director of motion pictures for the Universal, Fox and other companies.

The course will take up the dramatic principles of the photoplay which are conflicts, dramatic triads, situations, suspenses, climaxes and unities; study of the screen, such as the punctuation of photoplays, the importance of the sequence of plot building, methods of revealing and developing character on the screen, cost of production; writing a photoplay which takes up organization of material, testing the plot from the viewpoint of the dramatic principles, dividing the story into sequences, writing the detailed sequence synopsis, and continuous action and increasing dramatic tension.

Work of Carmelites on the Screen

Work on the picturization of the successful novel, "Wild Apples," by Grace MacGowan Cooke and Alice MacGowan will be started in about two weeks. This novel ran serially in McClure's Magazine, appearing anonymously. It came out afterward in book form, still with no author's name, but when Richard Barthelmess chose it for a vehicle, he asked to use the names of the writers and the privilege was given. Both Grace MacGowan Cooke and Alice MacGowan have been among the Carmelites for the past 15 years. Among their many well known works are "The Power of the Glory" and "The Straight Road," the latter of which also ran anonymously in McClure's Magazine.

Dorothy Mackaill has been selected to play opposite Richard Barthelmess in "Wild Apples," which follows his picture of the Cromwell period in English history, "The Fighting Blade." Miss Mackaill was Barthelmess' leading lady in that picture and she achieves the distinction of being the first leading lady to play opposite him in two pictures since he became a star two years ago.

Stockmen Fight Pests

Stockmen in the Canadian river district in Texas have shown themselves increasingly in accord with the poisoning methods advocated by the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture for the extermination of predatory animals, particularly coyotes. In one district, poisoning operations have resulted in a kill estimated as between 75 and 90 per cent of the coyotes over an area of 2,202 square miles. A border strip five miles wide, and including approximately 1,200 square miles, was poisoned, with a resultant kill of 25 per cent of the coyotes. In coyote poisoning operations stockmen do not usually spend time hunting dead animals beyond the point where they are convinced of the effectiveness of the method. It is considered more profitable to devote as much time and energy as possible to covering a wider territory with poison baits.

SHOWING THAT WE DO THINGS

The annual Monterey Peninsula Industrial and Arts Exposition, which opened yesterday, is an important event. It will be a great success.

To the public at large an annual industrial and arts exposition of large magnitude is a matter of civic pride. To the individual exhibitor it is a matter of personal profit.

No other form of advertisement is so profitable as the actual display of the actual products of our factories and studios to the great concourse of people who visit these shows, to whom detailed explanations and descriptions can be made. During the four days' exhibit the majority of our people and multitudes of strangers are sure to visit it—some several times.

REMOVE DEAD NOTICES

Visitors in Carmel frequently ask when such and such an event is to take place. They are informed that the affair has already occurred. "Well," says Mrs. Jones, "I saw a notice on the fence."

Now here's what happens right along. Organizations put up notices for lectures, dances, meetings, etc., and when the events are over the signs are left up. For pity sake, take them down when the thing is past—always.

WHY ADD MORE FUEL?

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt says, upon her return from abroad, that she wishes more Americans would travel in Europe in order that they might learn in what low esteem this country is held on the other side of the Atlantic.

It is unnecessary for Americans to go to Europe to learn this. It is reflected in what is said about this country by our Europeanized Americans, who instead of being indignant at Europe's ingratitude for the blood and treasure poured out by this country in the cause of civilization without the hope of material recompense, assume that if Europe is displeased with the United States it must be the fault of this country.

If Europe holds this country in low esteem because of the sacrifices we have already made in Europe's behalf, is it wise that we should make ourselves still more hated and misunderstood by making more sacrifices?

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE

XLIV.—UTAH

THE first white excursion into Utah dates back to 1540 when a party of Spaniards sent out by Coronado succeeded in penetrating to the Colorado river. There is no authentic record of further explorations until over 200 years had elapsed. In 1776 two Franciscan friars, in their attempt to find the shortest way to the Pacific, went from Santa Fe to Utah Lake. The Great Salt Lake, however, was not discovered until 1824, when James Bridges, a trapper, in wandering through this region came upon this huge, inland, salt sea.

But the real history of Utah begins with the rise of Mormon power there. Discouraged by the agitation in Illinois and Missouri, the Mormons decided to emigrate to the great West. In large caravans they traveled across the plains and in 1847 came to Salt Lake City where they settled. Here they flourished, increasing their numbers and by 1852 they reached a total in this vicinity of over 15,000. Meanwhile, in 1848, by the terms of the treaty of peace with Mexico, a huge western tract, of which Utah was a part, was ceded to the United States. As no definite government was arranged for, the control of affairs locally was for a number of years entirely in the hands of the officers of the Mormon church. They, accordingly, made up a constitution and organized under the name of the State of Deseret. This is a word taken from the Book of Mormon, and signifies, "Industry." Application was made for admission to the Union, but this was refused and the federal government instead organized the Territory of Utah in 1850. The first governor was Brigham Young, the successor of Joseph Smith and president of the Mormon church.

The attempt to do away with polygamy met with little success until in 1890 the Mormon church finally agreed not to countenance it. Meanwhile, growing antagonism between the Mormons and non-Mormons verged nearly on civil war. Finally a general amnesty was declared and after many requests Utah was accepted as the forty-fifth state of the Union in 1896.

Mote and Beam.

Senator Moses, apropos of a certain monopoly, said at a dinner in Washington:

"I am no muckraker. Have you ever noticed that muckrakers as a rule are slightly incrusted with muck?

"A politician was taking a swim the other day in the swimming pool of a big ocean liner. A great New York society lady—one of those well-preserved society ladies with golden hair, four divorces and a platinum removable bridge—well, this lady was taking a swim, too, and she soon had the politician engaged in talk. Sitting beside him on the marble rim of the pool, she gave politics the very old deuce.

"'Politics are man-managed,' she ended, swinging her legs girlishly in the water, 'and every man has his price. He lets the world know it, too.'

"The politician glanced sidewise at the society lady in her ultra bathing dress. Then he said:

"'Well, every woman has her figure, and she doesn't mind letting the world see it, either.'" property could be purchased in at prices far below those of the present day

Carmel-by-the-Sea has grown beyond all predictions of a few years ago. And prices have kept step with that growth.

Carmel-by-the-Sea is growing faster today than ever before. If you could purchase property today in Carmel-by-the-Sea at prices of a few years ago, you would hesitate before overlooking that opportunity.

TODAY

you are offered the opportunity of buying Carmel property at "old prices." Suitable available land for subdivision in Carmel is about exhausted. The opportunity offered today may not occur again.

CARMEL WOODS

is the ninth addition to the constantly growing town of Carmel-by-the-Sea, the most celebrated center of art and letters on the Pacific Coast.

CARMEL WOODS is in the heart of the Monterey Peninsula, touching Carmel-by-the-Sea on one side and Pebble Beach on the other. Magnificent pines and oaks and luxuriant undergrowth make Carmel Woods a region of native loveliness, admirably adapted for the homes of those who love nature and find in the healthful climate, the romantic mission history and the cultured atmosphere of Carmel-by-the-Sea their ideal of a permanent dwelling place.

CARMEL WOODS is a residence subdivision, with reasonable restrictions recommended by the town trustees and town planning commission of Carmel-by-the-Sea. These restrictions are designed to assure every purchaser a congenial environment.

CARMEL WOODS is traversed by roads that wind through the pines and oaks, opening up vistas of irresistible charm, making the homesites accessible, and at the same time emphasizing the note of seclusion so dear to those who seek homes on the Monterey Peninsula. These roads are all forty feet wide and for twenty feet of their width they are surfaced and graveled.

Water in abundance and electricity have been brought to every homesite.

Individual lots can be purchased for as little as $350.00

Reasonable terms if desired.

Outline Sketch of Carmel's Sculptor

As a usual thing the Pine Cone, when one of Carmel's celebrities is to be told about, prefers to do the telling in its own way, but Fred Stonerod, in the Peninsula Daily Herald, has done such a good bit of work in his Jo Mora story that we cheerfully depart from our accustomed policy. The story follows:

"When Father Mestres brought Jo Mora from San Francisco two years ago to do the Serra sarcophagus for the mission chapel in El Carmelo Mission he knew what he was doing. The work is almost completed and is but one more monument to the art and skill of of America's foremost sculptor.

"Like so many others, Mora has been captured by the charm of the Monterey Peninsula and will make it his permanent home. He has just awarded the contract to J. C. Anthony, local builder, to erect a unique studio and workshop on his beautiful Pebble Beach property overlooking Carmel bay, preliminary work on which Anthony started this week.

"Among all of the studios in this vicinity there will be none so distinctly different as this creation of chalk rock and stucco. It is original, like its owner. The workshop will be 40x50 feet in dimension, with a 15 by 20 foot wing, to be used for his modeling, moulding, wood-carving and marble cutting. Another wing of like dimension will be used for exhibition purposes, with a small patio in connection suitable for displaying outdoor pieces.

"Mora has attained the height of success in his art by hard work, careful and patient study. His genius is hereditary as his father was also a noted sculptor. It runs in the Mora blood.

"There are a few artists before the public today who are so well fitted to interpret the Spanish and the southwestern Indian architecture and customs as is Jo Mora. He lives it and dreams about it. He has traveled horseback over the same trail taken by Portola and Father Junipero Serra's party on the historic trek from Bahia to Alta California more than two centuries ago. He made a study of all the old missions and tarried for months at a time along El Camino Real. Some of his most prized possessions are the notes and sketches he made on this trip. Then just to illustrate how versatile this Mora chap is, he jumped into the famous Brete Harte gold camp district where the pioneers of the "root-in', toot-in' forties" carved their fortunes from the rugged Sierra, and secured the local color necessary. His work completed, he again took to the saddle and journeyed far into the south-west, Texas, New Mexico, and finally into the land of the Hopi, the Navajo and Apache. Here he lived and worked for years. He learned the language and customs of America's oldest civilization. He was admitted to the Indians' most sacred ceremonies and his paintings of Hopi Kachinas, or ceremonial costume, have been stamped by the highest authorities as the most perfect and scientific work of its kind in existence. It is little wonder that with such training and study combined with a natural genius, Jo Mora is giving to the world, art works which will live through the centuries.

"Lack of space prevents mention of but a few of Mora's notable masterpieces. There is the Cervantes monument in Golden Gate Park, San Francisco; The "Doughboy" monument standing in front of the San Rafael courthouse; the Brete Harte memorial on the Post street entrance to the Bohemian Club, San Francisco; and the exterior panels of the Native Sons building, San Francisco. Wm. R. Hearst had Mora interpret the Spanish Renaissance in the lobby of his Los Angeles Examiner building. The heroic pediment on the Pacific Mutual building and the decorative figures on the Realty Syndicate building are two other examples of Mora's art in Los Angeles. Mora and his father did the beautiful figure groups on both the Orpheum and Los-Angeles Athletic club building. One of Mora's very latest works is the Tymbanum on the San Francisco Stock Exchange, a figure composition interpreted in the Greek.

"Mora is one of the most popular members of both the Bohemian and Family Clubs, of San Francisco. He works hard, but finds time for play, too. He is a valuable asset to California and particularly to this part of it, which, as he says, has such a wealth of tradition. It teems with historical romance, and the work of restoring the old missions and adobes as well as the re-birth of Spanish architecture as evidenced in our numerous buildings of more modern construction, the advice and assistance of Jo Mora is invaluable and will be fully appreciated as time goes on.

Horned Snakes Made While You Wait.

Why, certainly there are horned snakes. In certain sections of the country they are manufactured while you wait. All that is needed is a sharp knife, a snake and the spur of a rooster. The manufacturer slits the skin on top of the skull, inserts the flange of the spur between the skin and waits until the skin heals, and there is a genuine horned snake ready for exhibition.

It's a Matter for Argument.

An English sports writer says "the athletes of England have more stamina than those of the United States, as the long distance run proves." True, America is behind in the marathon. We haven't specialized on that so much over here. But, speaking of stamina, rowing takes fully as much of it as the long distance run. And we have it all over other countries on the water.—Grit.

Carmel contributors to the preliminary fund for the Monterey Peninsula Industries and Art Exposition, now on, are D. W. W. Johnson, John B. Jordan, Calvin C. Hogle and M. J. Murphy.

Due to the efforts of Mrs. J. G. Hooper the benefit dance for the local library was a success, about fifty dollars being realized. A picture donated by M. De Neale Morgan, on which $28 was realized, was won by Miss Carolyn Jones of Fresno.

L. E. Gottfried is erecting an extensive addition to the Carmel Oriental Shop on the corner of Dolores street and Ocean avenue. The addition, which is to be two stories, is being built of reinforced concrete and will extend from the rear of the present building to the Selby Garage. The addition will be used for store-room and packing-room.

Unqualified support for the Carmel-San Simeon highway, and for any other worthy project in which the Monterey Peninsula people might be interested, was promised recently by President W. T. Bishop of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce in a friendly visit with Secretary George F. Salterbach of the Monterey Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Charles S. Stanton has as guests Attorney L. W. Pratt and wife of Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Realtor Calvin C. Hogle is away on a two weeks' camping trip in Modoc county.

Mrs. Ray C. DeYoe and son are home from their vacation, which they spent in the hills near Los Gatos.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Harney, who came here for a brief vacation only, and remained five months, have retuned to Marysville.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Tulloch and Mrs. V. Hill and nephew from Los Angeles spent a few days with Mrs. J. O'Hara on Lincoln street.

Leonard W. Perry, recently returned from the east, was host at a Del Monte dinner-dance a few nights ago. His guests included Mrs. F. S. Brown, the Glazzells, the Byington Fords, Miss Willette Allen and Messrs. Fred and Harrison Bodwell, [illegible] and Leo Frazer.

An evening spent at the Mission Tea House will be an evening spent pleasantly. Dancing. Adv.

It means nothing unless backed by a product whose name means a whole lot. There are dozens of makes of men's clothing for which we prefer that some other store claim exclusive control in this city.
